A tradition of innovation for over half a century

Pride in Workmanship

In the last half century, Gerber Legendary Blades® has grown into one of the largest knife manufacturers in the world. And in that time Gerber has begun to introduce non-traditional cutlery items such as the Multi-Plier®, Strike Force® Fire Starter System and Signal Mirror. But we have not forgotten our roots. Gerber is a top-of-the-line, state-of-the-art, hand crafted knife manufacturer first and foremost.

Throughout this catalog employees and processes are featured that have brought the company to where it is today. It is unfortunate that all of our hard working employees cannot be shown, but the ones between these covers exemplify the long-term dedication to quality embraced at Gerber. These employees have been here through the development of many award winning knife models that are still in use today. And when they finish their day, they go home knowing they made a knife they would be proud to own themselves.

Attention to Details

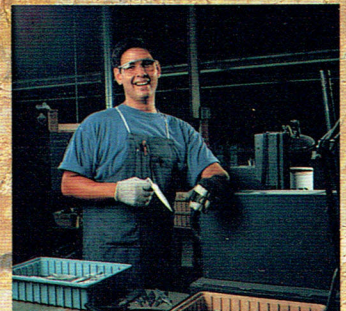

Laying side by side, a knife that will last you a lifetime and a knife that will break down in no time look quite similar. After examining the fit and finish and the materials used in the components, however, differences start to become alarming. Gerber blades and locking mechanisms are matched up on every single knife to insure smooth operation. And all of our folding knives feature a safety pause helping insure you won't close the blade on your fingers. All of the components, including the precision turned rivets and tempered spring and catch, are of the best quality. Although you can't see those qualities by looking, it makes all the difference in the world as to how long the knife will last.

Hand crafted quality for over half a century

When you receive a Gerber product, you can be sure that the human hand played a large part in its manufacture. The procedures to make a quality knife have changed very little in the past fifty years. Yes, there are machines available that will assemble and sharpen knives, but we are talking about the procedures that go into a quality knife. Gerber knives are hand assembled and hand sharpened. That's why when you buy a Gerber, you're not just buying a knife, you're buying a legend.

The E-Z-Out™

Not having formal training can make it hard to break into any field, but some of the best musicians and artists today are self-taught and so is Research and Development Specialist Brad Parrish. “Because I’m self-taught, I look at things from a practical stand point. Our engineers may not always agree with my views, but that is why Gerber has a real good balance between technology and hands-on experience.” So how does a person become a self-taught prototype craftsman? “When I was engaged to be married, I asked if I could make some special knives as a wedding gift for my wife. My original drawings needed work, but with some help I developed working models and I’ve been making prototypes ever since.”

Brad Parrish - Gerber Employee since 1974

When you buy a Gerber, you're not just buying a knife, you're buying a legend.

Available in March 1994!

E-Z-OUT™

Gerber employees can tell you how their company feels about adding a new knife line. Some of them, like Brad (pictured at left), remember building new knives over a decade ago. Gerber's tradition of innovation has resulted in many knives that are considered ahead of their time. With every new product, one statement is heard around the Gerber factory again and again; "Let's make sure it's a top quality knife."

The new E-Z-Out™ knife follows this long tradition. Its main feature, besides its multi-functional pocket clip, is its ability to be opened with one hand. Now building a knife that can be opened with one hand is one thing. Building an easy to use, comfortable handled and tougher-than-it-needs-to-be one handed knife is quite another.

The E-Z-Out™ features a truly innovative clip that makes it all the easier to access the knife. It can be clipped to your pocket, belt or vest making a sheath unnecessary.

Heat-treated high carbon stainless steel makes up the blade and a combination of easy to grip soft rubber and a virtually indestructible fiberglass filled nylon makes for a tough, light weight handle. You may or may not hear about these new top quality materials being used by other knife manufacturers, but one thing for sure you won't hear about is their rivets and blade locks being made from top grade stainless steel that is heat treated and tempered. Gerber knives are built to endure rugged use and provide years of enjoyment to our customers.

Available in two sizes, the E-Z-Out™ makes a great pocket knife. Both come with a detachable pocket clip and are backed by Gerber's exclusive limited lifetime warranty.

When you need a knife you can open with one hand, take the E-Z-Out™.

Outdoor Recreational Products

Thirty-two years is a long time to be at one company, but Leta Menken feels that working in various Gerber departments prepared her for her current work in the reconstruction and refurbishing of Gerber knives. "I'm a pack rat, so I've squirreled away parts for knives that we haven't made for forty years. Many times after I send someone back their refurbished knife, I get a call from them wondering why I sent them a new knife, and that makes me feel good." But can a person still be happy with their job after 32 years? "This company has always built a good knife and we've always stood behind our knives and we can be proud of that . . . and that's exactly how I feel."

When you buy a Gerber, you're not just buying a knife, you're buying a legend.

12 Cube Refill

If you're an outdoors person, you know that the weather can surprise even the most experienced of us. A camping or hiking trip can turn into a lesson in survival with one swift storm front. Or a fishing or hunting trip can turn into more work than fun because you didn't have the right tools.

Supplying the kind of tools that do what they are meant to do in severe conditions is Gerber's aim. Take our Strike Force® Fire Starter System. We made sure, through extensive testing, that it would be able to start a fire in most wet, windy and cold conditions. That means the Strike Force® could be the difference between perishing and surviving a bitter night.

The rugged self-contained and water resistant fire starting system contains everything you need to start a fire in almost any condition. The first truly reliable survival tool of its kind, the patented Strike Force® system includes:

- Flint Rod
- Striker Bar
- High Impact Case
- Two Tinder Cubes
- Lanyard System

The outdoors are there to enjoy, but are enjoyed most by those who go prepared. Let Gerber supply you with the products that allow you to have a good time, every time.

#07560 Signal Mirror

Standard issue of the United States Air Force, the Gerber Signal Mirror can be seen by potential rescuers for up to 100 miles (as tested by the U.S. Military). Built from Lexan™ Polycarbonate, it floats, weighs less than an ounce and is extremely easy to use. A specially designed sighting system allows you to aim it with precision. It is nearly unbreakable and at only three inches long is convenient to carry on your next outing.

Gerber Axes

It is said that everyone has an axe to grind. Well, if you don't, consider purchasing a Gerber axe. Our tried and true axes come with nearly unbreakable molded lexan handles. And the axes weight is all where you need it, in the high quality forged steel head. The Sport Axe is easily wielded with one hand while the Camp Axe allows two-handed use.

Clip Lock™ Knives

If white water rafting or backpacking is your interest, the Clip Lock™ series is a great addition to your equipment. With a sheath that attaches to your vest or pack, the all stainless steel knife is easily withdrawn for use with a press of your thumb. When finished, the knife 'clicks' back into the sheath to let you know it is secure. The knife's serrated edge is perfect for cutting through nylon rope. There are three river tested blade styles from which to choose.

Gerber Dive Knives

Diving is a sport that requires preparation, skill and top notch equipment. A serrated and fine edge blade are two of the qualities the Moray® dive knife has to offer. It also has a blunt chisel point tip for any type of prying. The smaller River Shorty doesn't sacrifice in quality or materials, but because of its smaller size, it can be an economical choice. It is also popular with white water rafters.

Gerber Saw

Research, research and more research lead to the development of a NEW Gerber Saw. The handle fits comfortably in the palm of your hand which allows rigorous use. An insert of Gator® textured Kraton™ rubber prevents the saw from slipping. And the exclusive Gerber stainless steel blade is a triple cut design so it will cut on both the pull and push stroke.

Bolt-Action™ Knives

If your needs for a knife vary, the Bolt-Action™ two-blade and three-blade exchange sets give you versatility without carrying several different knives. The extra blades can be stored in the sheath which has a metal lined pouch. Utility, saw and skinner blades are available in these exchange models.

One of the toughest knives on the market, the Gerber Bolt-Action™ is American made and made for action. The blades are precision ground by hand for a sharp edge. The hard molded handle has a checkered pattern for a sure grip and is extremely light weight.

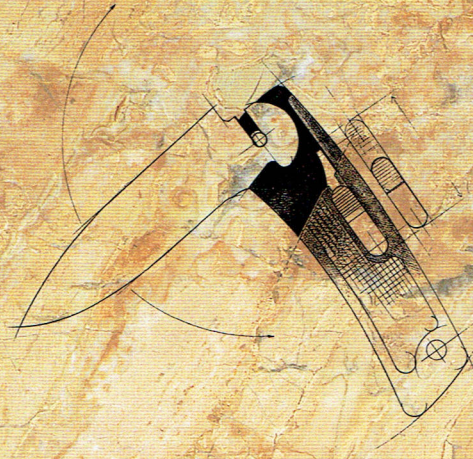

For a larger knife with a finger-notched handle, choose the nine-and-one-half inch Bolt-Action™ Parabellum® knife. Its sheath can be used in a folded blade, or fixed blade position.

Fiskars® Fillet Knives

My grandfather used to say, "Filleting a fish correctly is hard enough. Don't make it harder by using the wrong knife." For years, Fiskars has been making the right knife. Nothing but the best quality components go into a Fiskars Fillet knife. The PowerGrip® handle is made of a soft rubber with a raised pattern that not only feels comfortable, it won't slip when it gets wet. The blades are available in serrated or non-serrated models and feature full tang construction. Each comes with a hard molded sheath (non-serrated models have a built in sharpener in the sheath).

Pro-Guide™ II Hunting Knives

We all want to make the cut. It means we are successful. If you're a hunter, making the cut means you've already been successful. And nothing makes the cut cleaner and easier than Gerber's Pro-Guide™ II hunting knives. Four hundred series high carbon stainless steel full tang blades really hold an edge, and the textured and notched handles prevent the knives from slipping. Each knife comes with a strong lightweight black cordura sheath which has a belt loop for carrying the knife.

The Multi-Plier® Pocket Tool

"I keep working at my job until I get it right," says 17-year employee Rose Marie Reed. And that's the type of devotion any company would love to find in their employees. "I enjoy working here because we are sticking to the roots of our company and that's what got us here. And we are constantly trying to improve our products." With the popularity of products like the Multi-Plier® soaring to new heights, Rose has her hands full every day. "I work hard to make sure we send out good products like making sure that the two jaws fit together correctly and work smoothly on our Multi-Plier®."

Police & Military

Woody Youngren has sharpened roughly three and one half million knives in his 22 years at Gerber. And he only knows one way to do his job; and that's the right way. "I'm going to do the best job I can on your knife, just like I did on the last knife I did. I can assure you that our knives will be sharper, and stay sharper longer, than any other on the market," says an unhesitating Woody. When friends ask Woody if he still finds his job satisfying, he's quick with a reply. "I make knives sharp and there's never a dull moment!"

When you buy a Gerber, you're not just buying a knife, you're buying a legend.

As we read in the newspaper every day, Police and Military personnel have ever-changing needs in order to keep pace with the escalating degree of problems they face. That means they must have the equipment that will help them perform the tasks they have been trained to do. Gerber listens to their needs and that is why we have been supplying both police and military groups with knives for many years.

Gerber receives letters from active and retired police and military personnel telling us how our product came through for them in the clutch. Those letters of gratitude don't translate into our employees being content and resting on their laurels. Once you've tasted success, you're driven to taste it again. That is why Gerber engineers and production employees continue researching and developing new technologies to make superior products.

The Guardian Back-Up® boot knife is an excellent example of that research. After speaking to many people about what makes a good boot knife, Gerber designed the Guardian Back-Up® along with its high-tech adjustable sheath. The results have been resounding and were capped off by Blade Magazine honoring the knife as its "American Made Knife of the Year" for 1993.

The police and military have proven our knives stand up to their standards, and we believe they will meet your standards too.

Survival/Military Knives

Equipping yourself to survive in the wilderness or in combat means picking the best of the best. After all, your life may depend on it. For decades Gerber survival and combat knives have been considered the finest money can buy. Why? How about because we have exacting standards about the type of steel we use. Or because each knife is hand ground into its classic design and then hand sharpened for a superior edge? Or the ergonomically designed handles? These features all lead to one conclusion; there are no better knives made, period.

Lightweight Knives

"I run into more people who when they find out I work here say, 'Oh, I've got a Gerber knife and I just love it,'" says Sarah Jensen, Packaging Department. "I think its because our first goal has always been quality." But Sarah points to attitude as an important factor as well. "I prepare myself mentally to have a positive attitude at work every day and that helps me do my best job. And that assures you of getting a good product. It's really satisfying knowing that you are working with the best quality knife company in the world." And after 20 years at Gerber, Sarah knows the products very well.

It's not always an insult to be called a lightweight. Just ask the current lightweight boxing champion of the world. And just as he is a champion, Gerber has also laid claim to the title for best lightweight knives money can buy.

For a slim and sleek pocket knife, the Gerber L.S.T.® (Light, Strong, Tough) series will out-work knives twice their size. From the key chain sized Microlight to the Ultralight to the L.S.T.®, these knives contain the same high quality steel as our most expensive knives.

If you're looking for a sure grip, the Magnum and Stallion knives feature handles with ergonomically designed finger notches. All the Gerber lightweights are built to last by using the best materials, hand sharpening the blades and hand assembling the knives. Lightweight Knives

To build the best lightweight pocket knives, we use sturdy fiberglass filled nylon handles. Nearly unbreakable, these handles are extremely tough, yet they weigh very little. For instance, the popular L.S.T.® pocket knife weighs just over one ounce. That is light enough that you can forget its in your pocket; until you need it! The blades are all made of the same high carbon stainless steel that our most expensive knives are made from. There just isn't a better, or more popular, lightweight pocket knife in the world today.
